

Learning to Distinguish Between Who, That, or Which

Key

1. On Instagram it's more important to have 1,000 followers who actively participate than 10,000 fans that were purchased.
2. Our customer account teams, which were recently developed to meet our changing business needs, will analyze your business operations from every angle.
3. Any site that has free delivery will appeal to potential customers.
4. Anyone who has recently purchased a smartphone knows how quickly they become obsolete.
5. Managers are looking for people who have good vocabularies, grammar, and manners.
6. The new rules that will become effective July 1 are intended to increase worker safety.
7. Jeffrey has a dog that likes to eat cold pizza.
8. Many assembly work areas provide a special handle that can be pulled to stop the line if an imminent danger arises.
9. Some of the parts that were moving down the assembly line required special robots to lift them onto the cars being assembled.
10. Our team, which has the authority to set up its own work schedules, tries to rotate the hardest jobs.
11. We appointed a safety committee that provides guidelines to individual work units.
12. Hawaiian Vintage chocolate, which is grown in the fertile regions of Kona and Keaau, is the only chocolate produced from American-grown cocoa beans.
13. Those chocolate lovers who are willing to pay the high price of $56 a pound appreciate the fruity aroma and intense taste of Hawaiian chocolate. C
14. Any car that is traveling over the speed limit will be ticketed.
15. Western rattlesnakes, which are the most common rattlers in the West, hibernate together in large numbers during the winter months.